At our next meeting…. Wednesday, February 8, 2012, at 7 p.m.
Kendall Kroesen—Gardening for Birds

Kendall grew up in Southern California where his mother identified common yard birds for him, but he didn’t take up birding until after earning a BA in anthropology at the University of California, Riverside. After participating in a sea turtle conservation project in northeast Mexico, he bought a bird book and binoculars.

He practiced birding when he could during three years as a salvage archaeologist and then in graduate school at the University of California, San Diego where he earned a PhD in cultural anthropology.

He moved to Tucson and did volunteer work for the Tucson Audubon Society. He joined the staff in February 2002, and during his first four years worked with the habitat restoration program and helped improve communications, especially via the website and newsletter.

In 2006, he became Habitat Restoration Program Manager. His responsibilities included oversight of restoration work, grant writing, planning and new project implementation. Recently, his title was changed to Habitats Program Manager because, in addition to the duties above, he is helping Tucson Audubon create an urban-focused sustainability program. In this program, Tucson Audubon is working with businesses, homeowners and landscape designers to better define the characteristics of urban landscapes that make them ecological sustainable and useful for declining populations of birds.

He attended the Hog Island Audubon Chapter Leadership Training in 2008, and there he met our own Karen LaFrance which is how we knew we wanted him for a speaker.

Tonight's program is not simply to talk about plants that attract wildlife, but about the general principles of landscaping that make them ecologically more sustainable and supportive of birds. He will talk a little about the Tucson Audubon programs and how they’re trying to orient them more toward urban populations. There are a variety of ecological issues that we have in our urban areas (declining birds, energy use, carbon footprint, water, non-point source pollution, etc.). These issues can be addressed through landscaping. He will introduce some basic principles and show example landscapes with a scorecard as to how well they measure up to the principles. He’s not a landscape designer and he makes the point that the principles he gives are generalized and don’t result in any one aesthetic approach, but can be used by landscape designers in creating a range of different landscape aesthetics.
What’s Happening in our Chapter
By your Editor, George Wall

We had a good Board Meeting and even had a guest—Gail Bliss.

We discussed the Annual Picnic at Horseshoe Ranch on March 31, 2012, and the Hassayampa Festival on April 7, 2012.

We talked about a welcome package to be given to guests and Gail Bliss will head up this endeavor.

We discussed a possible staffing position.

We have a lot of things that needs to be done that we outlined at the Retreat. Board members were urged to get familiar with the Retreat notes.

It turned out to be a great General Membership Meeting on January 11th to hear me give a program about Kenya. 58 people showed up for the program and 15 of them were guests. We informed everyone about the picnic and the Tres Rios Festival in March.

Brown Canyon Ranch & Area
Leader: George Wall, 623-875-7057
gwall5@cox.net

This is a special trip that we have arranged with Buenos Aires National Wildlife Preserve. We have reserved the Brown Canyon Environmental Education Center. This is a 7 bedroom ranch house that sleeps 14 on the second floor. There will be roommates. It has 2 bathrooms on the upper floor and a bathroom on the bottom floor. There is a large kitchen with refrigerator and oven and a very large meeting room with a huge table to seat everyone.

This ranch house is located on a dirt road quite a distance from the paved road. A canyon wash (sometimes with water) leads up into the mountains to an archway. Birds abound especially if there is water. Not only will we bird here, but also at nearby spots like the preserve and Arivaca Lake.

There is limit of 14 people and we currently have 8 signed up. The cost for renting is $560 for the two nights. This means if we get 14 people (which I anticipate easily), the cost will be $40 for the two nights plus your travel costs. You have to bring your own linens for your bed or a sleeping bag, towel, and any other toilet necessities. We chip for the suppers (usually spaghetti/meatballs, salad and dessert one night and hot dogs, potato salad, baked beans and dessert the next). You bring your own food for breakfast and lunches.

Tres Rios Nature and Earth Festival
Saturday-Sunday, March 10-11, 2012 from 9 a.m. – 4 p.m.

The event and activities are free – Parking is $3 per vehicle

Tres Rios Nature and Earth Festival is an annual two-day outdoor event that focuses on the rich diversity of wildlife, habitat, history and culture of the Gila River drainage. This is an opportunity to celebrate the rich heritage, ecology, history and wildlife of the Gila, Salt and Agua Fria Rivers! It is a great opportunity for the whole family to enjoy a beautiful spring day in Arizona and learn something about the place we call home.

Canoe Excursions
Join us “Down by the River” to learn about safe canoeing from Arizona Game and Fish boating safety instructors and experience the joy of paddling your own canoe around the small lake at the Festival Area. Enjoy the serenity of being on the water, get close to birds and animals, watch the fish below you and generally enjoy the great weather and natural surroundings!

Early Birding Tours
Join volunteers from the Sonoran Audubon Chapter for a dawn tour (7:30 a.m.) of the festival vicinity along the Salt and Gila Rivers. This is your chance to see the birds and other wildlife of the area at their best, prior to the arrival of the festival crowd. Participation is by pre-registration only and is limited to 15 participants each day. Pre-register by email to McBobAZ@aol.com or phone to 602-237-3951. Please state which day (Saturday or Sunday) you plan to attend this activity. Bring your binoculars, field guides and comfortable hiking shoes.

Regular Birding Tours
These tours start at 9 a.m. when the festival opens and go all day long. They start from the Bird Walk Booth.

Hikes
Guided and self-guided hikes will be offered during the festival. Staff from Estrella Mountain Regional Park will lead hikes several times daily into the trail system, identifying plants and animals (or their “sign”) as you walk. Or, you can walk on your own through the trail system during the beautiful spring weather expected for the day. Find the “Hiking” station in your daily program and check for the next available guided tour.

Fishing Clinic
Enjoy two opportunities to “wet a line” at the Tres Rios Nature and Earth Festival, and learn about fishing from Arizona Game and Fish Department Fisheries staff. For the little ones there is a tank in the center of the festival grounds that offers plenty of fast action and a never-fail chance to catch that first fish of a lifetime! For older children and adults, jump on our hay wagon transporter and ride down to the river to our fishing dock where instructors will set you up and get you fishing as a first experience or a repeat of a familiar one! No license required for this event!

To reach the Estrella Mountain Regional Park:
From central Phoenix, take I-10 west to Estrella Parkway exit.
Travel south to Vineyard Ave.
Turn east on Vineyard Avenue to the Estrella Mountain Regional Park entrance on the south side.

See the website at http://www.tresriosnaturefestival.com/activities.htm for more info and detailed map.
Horseshoe Ranch

The Arizona Game and Fish Commission has bought the Horseshoe Ranch, a 199-acre holding surrounded by the Agua Fria National Monument in public hands. The historic ranch features two homes, bunkhouses, a large barn, storage buildings, ancient rock art and a half-mile of the Agua Fria River in southeastern Yavapai County. This is a significant riparian corridor. The agency plans to use the ranch for outdoor and wildlife educational activities.

The Sonoran Audubon Society along with several other organizations donated monies to help buy this ranch. As a result, we have reserved the site for our 5\textsuperscript{th} Annual Picnic on Saturday, March 31, 2012, starting at 11 a.m. until 2 p.m.

There will be a Bird Walk starting at 8 a.m.

\textbf{Directions:} Take I-17 towards Flagstaff. Take exit 259 (Bloody Basin Road – a well established dirt road) and bear right for approximately 5 miles. Gate entrance is on the left and it will be well marked.

Reservations Required: Contact George Wall at 623-875-7057 gwall5@cox.net or sign up at the Membership Meetings.
Members Spotlight
By Eleanor Campbell

New York City is a long way from Sun City, Arizona, but Vera Markham has brought her birding expertise that far. Vera says her skills in identifying birds, both visually and by sound, come from "repetition...going out birding often."

Vera was born in London, England, lived in Canada during her early years, then moved to Long Island, New York. She spent her school and most adult years around New York City. Although her father had given her binoculars and bird books as a youth, she became truly interested in birds when she joined the Linnaean Society of New York. She went birding with them to Jones Beach, Long Island; Cape May, Atlantic City and Brigantine, New Jersey; Jamaica Bay Wildlife Refuge; Prospect Park; New York's Central Park and Bronx Zoo. She was also a member of the Brooklyn Bird Club.

Although she worked full time for various firms in Manhattan, she took trips with professional birders and acquired a life list of 595 species. She took early retirement after 25 years with ConEd and moved to Arizona 10 years ago. Here she's been active in the Birders Anonymous group as well as a friend of Sonoran Audubon Society. She's a member of National Audubon Society and is especially interested in animal rights with membership in PETA, Animal Rights Society of the United States, Arizona Humane Society and the Humane Farming Association. As a member of the Sonoran Audubon Society, she’s a member of an IBA team for the Arlington Wildlife Area.

Vera is also a great photographer owning seven cameras, the newest being a Nikon D5100 that gives her clear pictures fast. Her photos are frequently published in this newsletter.

In the past she's had a canary, parakeets and an Umbrella Cockatoo as pets, but presently has Rusty, a toy poodle.

You'll see Vera either leading a bird trip or attending one. She considers the Elegant Trogon a special species and was happy to see the Smith's Longspur, a life bird for her, on the recent SAS Arlington field trip.

FAMILY BIRD WALKS AT ESTRELLA
Sponsored by the Sonoran Audubon Society

Estrella Mountain Park is located on the south side of the Gila River in Goodyear at Bullard Ave. and Vineyard Rd.

BIRD WALKS have started again and the response has been great in both attendance and in the number of birds seen.

SATURDAYS: These walks are held the second Saturday of each month. The next walk will be on Saturday, February 11, 2012. Meet at the visitor’s center parking lot at 8:00 a.m. The walk will last approximately 2 hours. For further information, contact Joe Ford: 623-792-8154 lford25@cox.net

SUNDAYS: These walks are held the fourth Sunday of each month. The next walk will be on Sunday, February 26, 2012, at 8:00 a.m. Follow the signs to the dirt parking lot on the east side of the park (Navy Area). For further information contact Bob McCormick at 602-373-2952 mecboaz@aol.com or Andrée Tarby at 602-421-9425 awtarby@gmail.com.

There is a $6.00 per vehicle charge for entering the park; however, the bird walks are free of charge.

On the Saturday walk held on January 14th, Eleanor Campbell stepped in for Joe Ford and did the walk assisted by Joe Legander. It was a cold morning and the river was high preventing a lot of the normal birds from making an appearance. Still, 12 people showed up for the walk and had a great time.
The Oilbird
By Dr. Jerry Theis

After a long day of birding at Cabanas san Isidro, Ecuador, in January 2001 with Chupaflor Nature Tours, Jim Black, the leader, asked if anyone was up for night birding. Most participants headed for their cabanas while a few of us climbed into the van and drove to the “Potoo pasture” as dusk fell. As we opened the van door an Andean Potoo was already singing. The bird immediately responded to its taped call and landed on a perch in full view. We felt fortunate to hear and see such a scarce and local Andean bird. At dinner everyone was told of our discovery so those who had stayed behind headed out while the first group retired for the night, except for me! When we arrived at the site, we heard hissing and clucking sounds coming from the forest opposite the potoo site. Upon pointing the spotlight toward the sounds, we noticed three large nightjar-type birds with large, glowing eyes, hovering and flying against the tree branches. We wrote them off as mystery nightjars or a family group of potoos, although potoos are not noted to be gregarious. No one at the lodge could explain our sighting. Several months later I was reading an old copy of a Wings tour newsletter. On one of their tours at Cabanas san Isidro, they experienced the same sights and sounds in the exact location but one of the birds landed, enabling them to identify the birds as Oilbirds. Oilbirds feed from fruits as they hover, emitting their unusual sounds as they feed. The loud clicking noises enable them to navigate and echolocate fruit in pitch darkness (the frequency is 7000 cycles/second, unlike a bat’s cry, which is supersonic).

The Oilbird ranges from Guyana and Trinidad to Venezuela, Colombia, Peru and Bolivia in forests and woodlands with caves. It has occurred as a rare vagrant to Costa Rica, Panama and Aruba. The Guacharo Cave was Venezuela’s first national monument and, according to some estimates, harbors 15,000 or more birds. Oilbirds live mainly on lower mountain slopes on both sides of the Andes but are prone to wandering. They roost by day in caves and dark gorges, emerging at dusk to feed by plucking large fruits from various trees, especially Oil Palms and tropical laurals, in canopy and borders, often flying long distances. They are noisy both at night and when disturbed in their diurnal roosts.

The Oilbird is a large, slim bird (16-19”) with a wing span of just over 3 ft. It has a flattened, powerfully hooked, bill surrounded by rictal bristles. It is mainly reddish-brown with white spots on the nape and wings. The lower parts are cinnamon-buff spotted with white. The stiff tail feathers are brown spotted with white. The feet are small and almost useless. The long wings make it capable of hovering and twisting flight, useful for navigating through caves. The Oilbird is the only nocturnal fruit-eating bird in the world.

How did the Oilbird get its name? In Trinidad it is called “diablotin” or little devil, referring to its loud cries. The genus name Steatornis means “fat bird.” The naked young are fed on rich, oily fruits and become grotesquely fat, reaching twice the adult weight at their maximum size. They lose this baby fat when their feathers begin to grow in. In the past, baby Oilbirds were captured and their fat boiled down for torch oil, hence their name!
